

Honoring the teacher-scholar ideal

Each year, Wake Forest University presents two awards to Babcock School professors whose work represents the highest standards in teaching and scholarship. Presented during the university's annual Founders' Day Convocation ceremonies, these awards honor the university's teacher-scholar ideal, which serves as a model for combining outstanding classroom teaching with rigorous academic research.

Kienzle Teaching Award

The Kienzle Award is presented to Babcock School professors who represent the highest standards of teaching excellence. Babcock alumni select the winner in a survey taken two years after their graduation. The award was established through a gift from Charles Kienzle ('80 MBA).

Recipients

2000 – B. Ram Baliga
2001 – Ajay Patel
2002 – Jonathan P. Pinder
2003 – Gary L. Shoemith
2004 – B. Ram Baliga
2005 – Jonathan P. Pinder
2006 – Charles R. Kennedy Jr.
2007 – Stephen H. Bryan
2008 – B. Ram Baliga

Cowan Faculty Research Prize

The Cowan Prize is presented to Babcock School professors for meeting the highest standards of excellence in academic research. The prize was established through a gift from Thomas V.E. Cowan ('72 BA), former chairman of Babcock's Board of Visitors.

Recipients

2002 – Jack Meredith
2003 – H. Jeff Smith
2004 – Michael D. Lord and Michelle Roehm
2005 – Timothy L. Smunt
2006 – Patrick R. McMullen and Robert C. Nash
2007 – Sara B. Moeller
2008 – Sherry Moss